TO FIND BOOKS THAT CONTAIN PLAYS,

...look in SHELBY.

Plays that are of sufficient length to be published individually will have both title and author entries in SHELBY. Related subject headings that may be useful are listed below. Also, check for book titles that begin with the word PLAYS or PLAYS OF.

COMEDY

TO LOCATE A SPECIFIC PLAY,

...consult one of the following reference works (by title, author, or by subject):

THE DRAMA SCHOLARS' INDEX TO PLAYS AND FILMS (Main Library/Ref. Z 5781 .S17 vol. 2) NOTE: Locations of plays are given under the author entry. This source includes plays from the beginning of recorded dramatic literature through 1977.

DRURY'S GUIDE TO

BEST PLAYS (Main Library/Ref. Z5781 .D8 1969) NOTE: Drury's excludes one-act plays. The complete location of the play is given under the author entry.

OTTEMILLER'S INDEX TO PLAYS IN COLLECTIONS (Main Library/Ref. Z 5781 .D8 1969) NOTE: Ottemiller's includes plays published 1900-1975. Locations are given under all entries but the key to symbols is given in the center of the book, between author and title indexes.

Play Index (Index table Main Library/Ref. Z 5781 .PS3; vols. 1949 - 1992) NOTE: Locations of plays are given under the author entry only.

TO LOCATE PLAYS THAT HAVE APPEARED IN MAGAZINE,

...use The Drama Scholar's Index (for plays published through 1977), Social Sciences and Humanities Index (for plays published through April 1974), or use the Humanities Index (for plays published after April 1974). Use the subject heading DRAMAS for a listing of plays by titles in the latter two indexes; then look for the complete location under the author's name.

Be sure to note that there is a difference between theatre criticism and drama criticism. Although you may come across both terms while looking for information about plays, only DRAMA CRITICISM is likely to be of value to you in an English class.

THEATRE CRITICISM is an account of a stage presentation of a play. It reviews or critiques the actors' performances, lighting, special effects, the stage set, music, or the director's role. Such articles are generally concerned with how the play was performed rather than the content or meaning of the play itself.

DRAMA CRITICISM, on the other hand, is an analysis of the drama itself. It reviews or critiques the characterization, theme, setting, or some other aspect of the play. These articles are generally concerned with a literary analysis of the play; the quality of the performance is irrelevant.

How do you know whether a citation refers to an article that discusses a stage performance or to an article that probes the motives of a character or theme of the play? You may have to briefly review the article itself to determine if it is theatre criticism or drama criticism. You can be sure, for example, that an article that comments on an actors' performance (i.e., Dustin Hoffman in RAINMAN) is theatre criticism; an article that comments on the play character, Willy Loman (in Death of a Salesman) is drama criticism.

Is there a difference between a DRAMATIST and a PLAYWRIGHT?

Webster's New Collegiate Dictionary defines a dramatist as "playwright" and the word playwright as "a person who writes plays." In most situations, the two words convey the same meaning and are used interchangeably.

TO LOCATE CRITICISM AND INTERPRETATION of drama (plays),

...use SHELBY. Look up your specific playwright's name as a subject search (i.e. Williams, Tennessee criticism).

SHELBY will lead you to books that contain general criticism about the author and his works.

Additional CRITICISM AND INTERPRETATION

...can be located in several reference books in the library. Consult the following bibliography for reference books that contain or lead you to criticism and background information about drama. Annotations for each title are given in the General Bibliography.

Gale Literary Criticism Series

Literary criticism is, by definition, "the art of evaluating or analyzing, with knowledge and propriety, works of literature." The Gale Literary Criticism Series provides a digest of literary criticism that spans works in all genres from antiquity to the twentieth century.

The "key" to the series is the cumulative index in the backs of various volumes of the series. Not only are references given to articles in that particular series title, but references are given to articles in other related Gale series titles.

Searching by Author

In CONTEMPORARY LITERARY CRITICISM, specific information on an author, EDGAR ALLAN POE for instance, can be located in a number of Gale series titles. The AUTHOR INDEX is used to locate this information, which looks like the following example:

Poe, Edgar Allan
1809-1849 NCLC 1, 16; DA; PC 1; SSC 1; WLC
See also AAYA 14; CDALB 1640-1865; DLB 3, 59, 73, 74;
SATA 23

The entry to the right of the author's name indicates the Gale Series title and volume(s) in which major articles can be found about the author and his work. The entries that begin with "See also" refer to other series titles in which information about the author appears. Explanations of abbreviations (such as PC, DLB and SATA) are given on the first page of the AUTHOR INDEX in the back of each volume.

If the index is cumulative, a master index is reprinted in the back of each of the individual title series. Use this index to locate information in all of the individual title series. See the wheel drawing on at the end of this section for an illustration of the master index.

Searching by Title

The series can also be used to locate criticism about specific titles. In later volumes of each series (with the exception of CMLC), a title index is included in the back of the volume. Some of these indexes are cumulative, covering all volumes in that series to the current volume.

CLC, NCLC, and TCLC have separate, paperbound, cumulative title indexes. The entries look like the following example and refer to volume and page numbers.

"Is This Love"	17:270, 272
Don Quixote (Smith)	32:596
Don Quixote (Acker)	45:18-20

Selecting the Appropriate Series

If the author's death date is:

From Antiquity through 1399

1400 through 1799

1800 through 1899

1900 through 1959

After Dec. 31, 1959 (or author is still living)

You should turn to:

Classical & Medieval Literature Criticism

Literary Criticism From 1400 to 1800

Nineteenth-Century Literature Criticism

Twentieth-Century Literary Criticism

Contemporary Literary Criticism

IF YOU ARE UNSURE OF THE AUTHOR'S BIRTHDATE, SIMPLY USE CLC which will refer you to the correct series and volume numbers.

Footnote Examples for Gale Titles

When writing papers, students who quote directly from any volume in the Literary Criticism Series may use the following general forms to footnote reprinted criticism.

Example for a PERIODICAL

Anne Tyler, "Manic Monologue," THE NEW REPUBLIC 200 (April 17, 1989) 44-6; excerpted and reprinted in CONTEMPORARY LITERARY CRITICISM, Vol. 58, ed. Roger Matuz (Detroit: Gale Research Inc., 1990) p. 325.

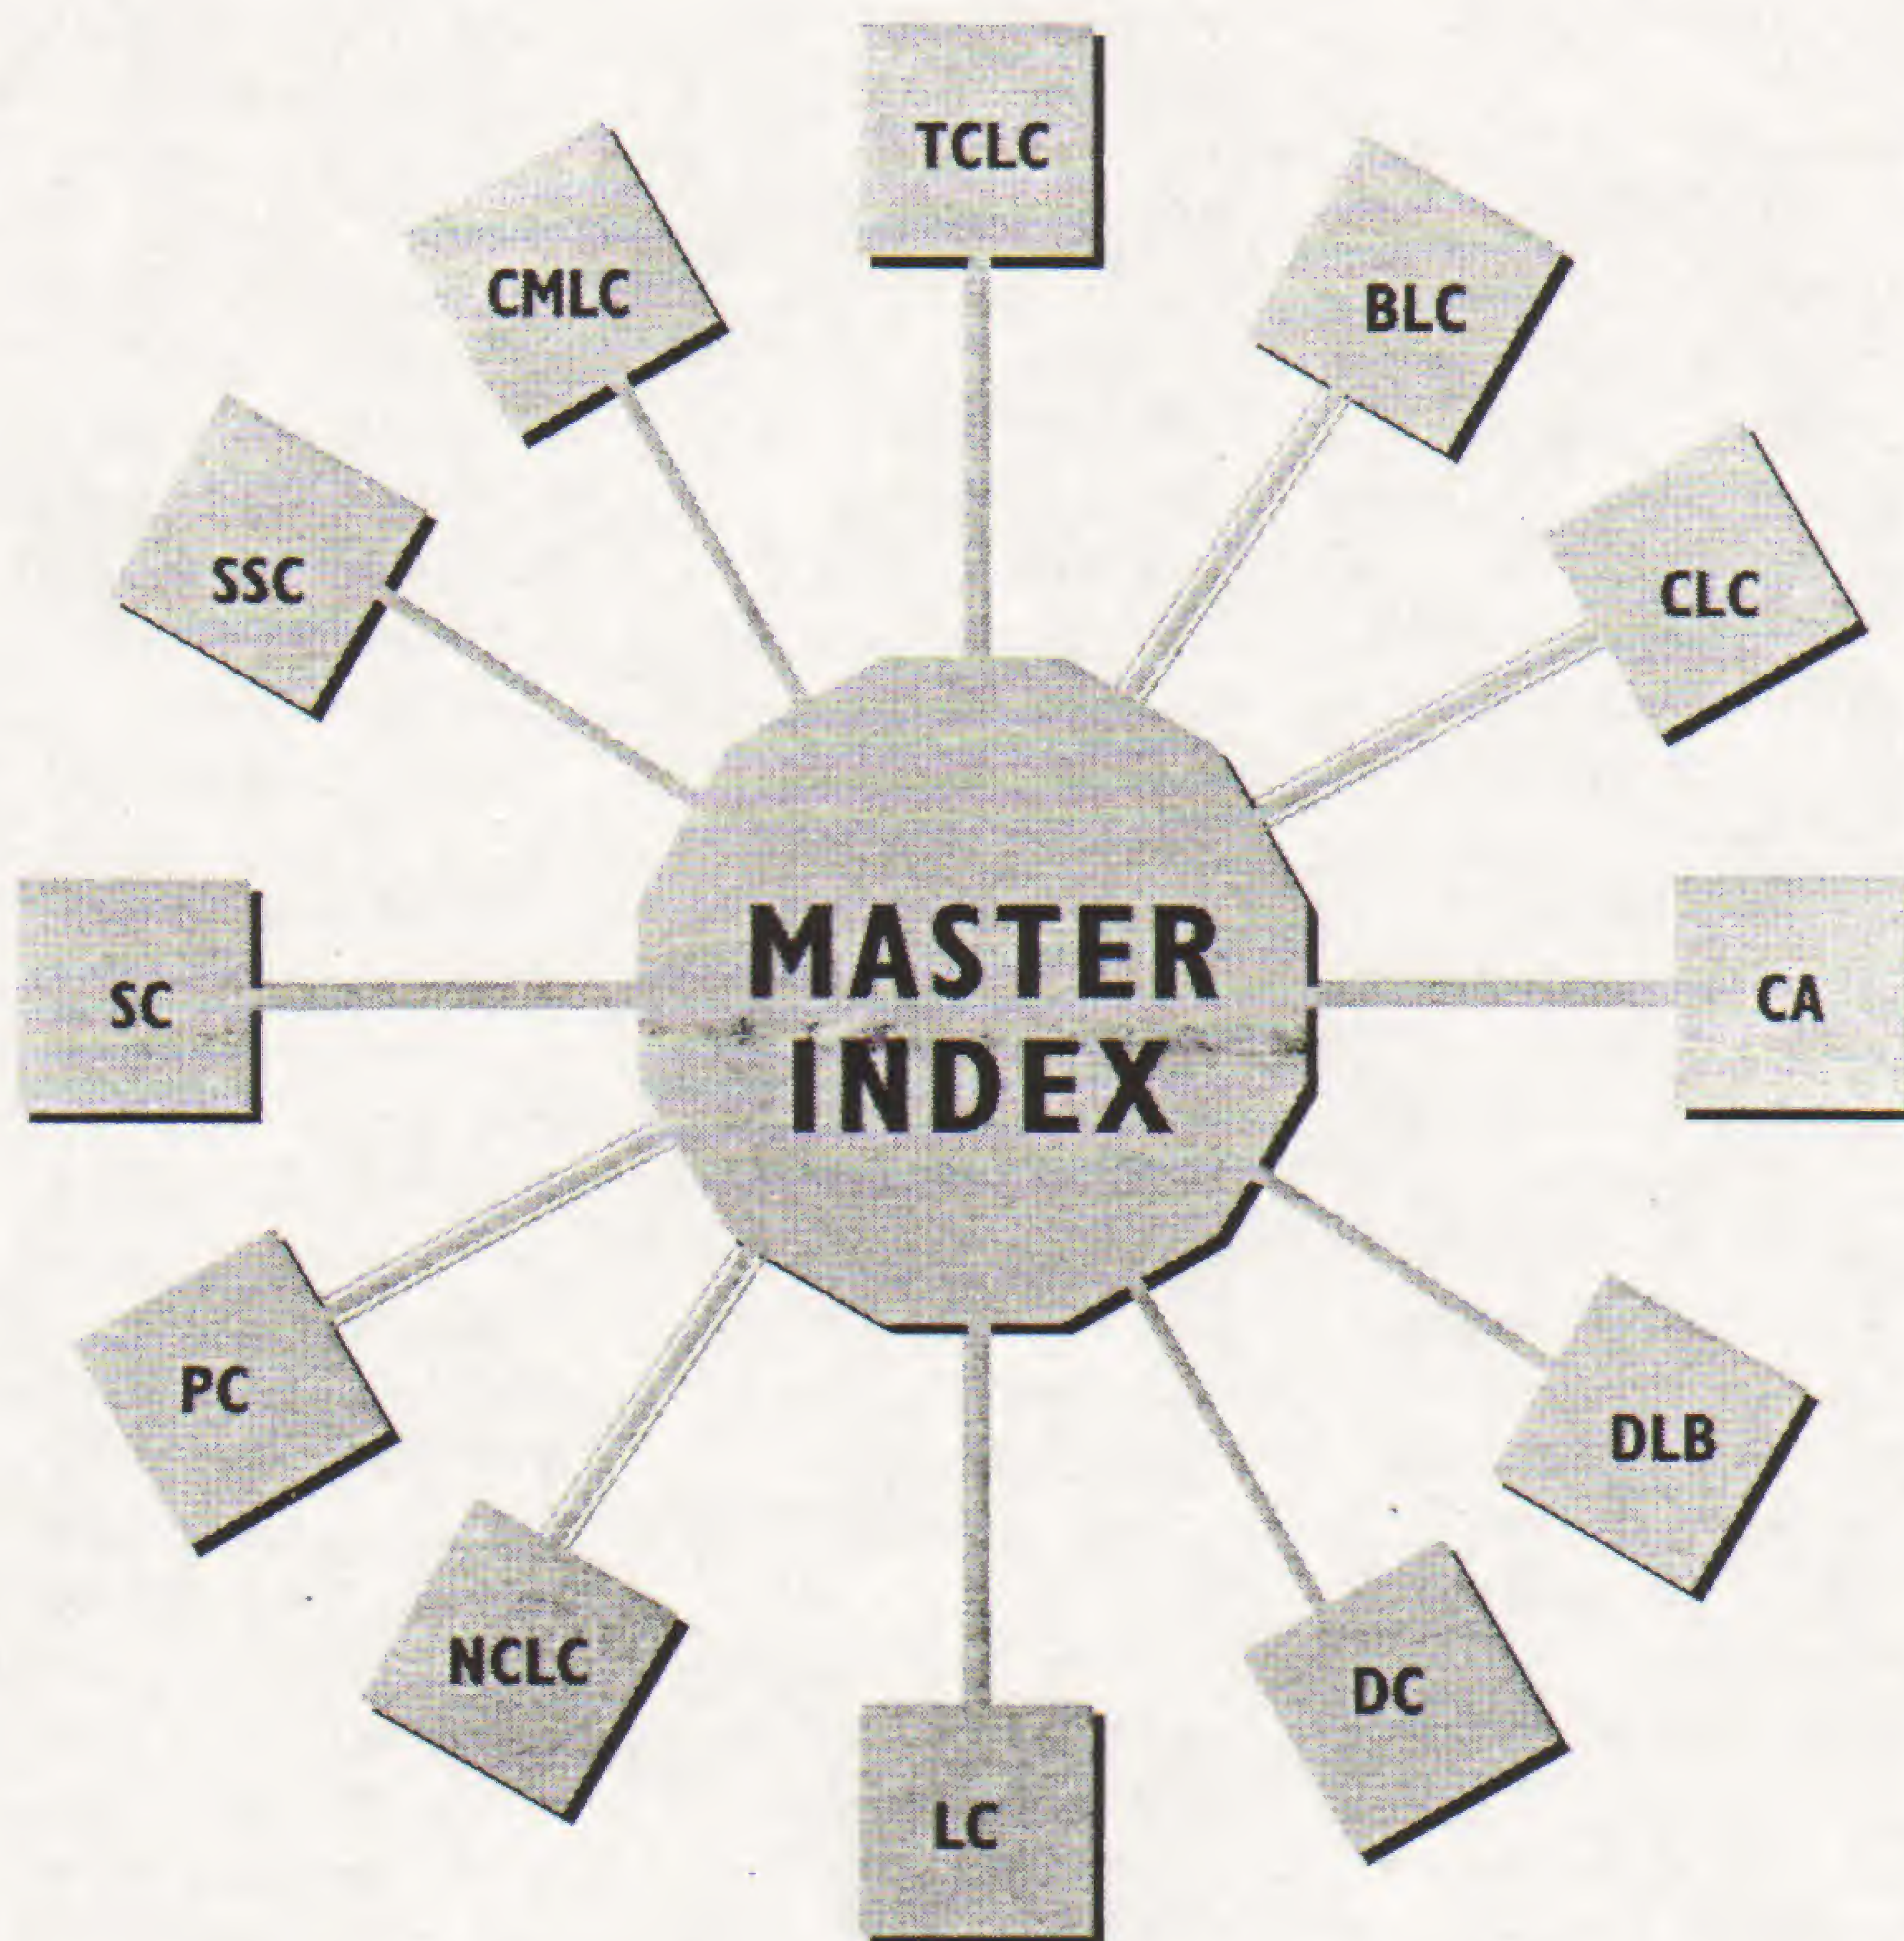

Example for a BOOK

Patrick Reilly, THE LITERATURE OF GUILT: FROM 'GULLIVER' to GOLDING (University of Iowa Press, 1988); excerpted and reprinted in CONTEMPORARY LITERARY CRITICISM, Vol. 58, ed. Roger Matuz (Detroit: Gale Research Inc., 1990), pp. 206-12.

The MLA Bibliography

(Located on the Index tables, 1960 - present)

The foremost guide to information about literature is the MLA INTERNATIONAL BIBLIOGRAPHY. It is an annual compilation of selections from various books and periodical sources in the field of modern languages and literature. It lists articles in foreign languages as well as in English.

Unfortunately, compilation of the MLA INTERNATIONAL BIBLIOGRAPHY is a lengthy process. This means that publication runs one or two years behind. The latest volume, which will not be the current year, is always shelved on the index table.

The annual volumes are bound and shelved on one of the index tables and are located in the Main Library/Ref. campus library. Some volumes contain publications for more than one year; check the spine of the volume to determine if more than one year is included and then look in each year's section individually. Some volumes contain information on literature from all over the world; Shelton State students, however, are usually interested only in information on general, English, or American literature.

MLA for Years 1960 Through 1980

Each volume of "the MLA" for the years 1960 through 1980 begins with a geographical Table of Contents. Note that the Table of Contents is further divided by chronological literary periods. This means that, in order to use the MLA effectively, you'll need to know the country and time period of the author you're researching.

Note that the numbers given in the Table of Contents refer to item numbers for each entry -- NOT to page numbers. An item number is like an inventory number assigned to each individual entry.

There are specific entries given for selected writers -- like Shakespeare and Melville -- in the Table of Contents.

To find information about specific writers, turn first to the appropriate geographical and chronological section. Then, begin looking for the writer's name in boldface type. Writers' names are arranged alphabetically in each section.

MLA for Years 1981 to the Latest Volume

In 1981, the MLA changed the format of the Bibliography by making the chronological section easier to read (providing headlines on each page) and by adding a subject index. However, the subject headings that are used are rather esoteric and do not include all articles or books. Shelton State students are advised to use the Guide to Classified Listings given in the front of the volume and to use the headlines to locate the appropriate nationality and chronological period.

In 1981, the Classified listings began to list pagination as well as item numbers. The index (subject and author) pagination begins with "A" and then an arabic numeral.

Examples from the MLA Bibliography as published since 1981 are given on the following page.

Tips on Using All

Volumes of the MLA

AVOID entries that look like this: {F 123} or give the abbreviation DAI.

"F" stands for festschriften, which means a collection of articles or papers written in honor or memory of someone noteworthy in a particular field. Festschriften are difficult to find, so don't waste time looking for them.

"DAI" is the abbreviation for Dissertation Abstracts International, which gives only abstracts, or summaries, of dissertations. Summaries of dissertations, which are sometimes very complex and are always difficult to locate, will not be very helpful to you; consequently, you should avoid these entries.

This set presents 20+ page articles on 66 British and American writers from the 14th to 19th centuries. The articles are arranged in chronological order. Each entry contains a biography of the author and excerpts from signed criticisms. A list of additional reading for each author is found in the back of the volume which contains the article of that author. Volume 6 includes bibliographies of the 66 authors, a complete table of contents of each chapter in the series, and an index to critics. No author/title index.

MCGRAW-HILL ENCYCLOPEDIA OF WORLD DRAMA (Ref. PN 1625 .M3)

This 4-volume work focuses on the accomplishments of the world's major dramatists (includes some of the lesser known playwrights) ranging from the ancient Greeks and Romans to theatre of the 20th. century. Each article includes a complete biography, critical commentary, selected synopses of individual plays, 2 bibliographic sections, and other information.

MAGILL'S BIBLIOGRAPHY OF LITERARY CRITICISM (Ref. Z 6S11 .M3)

13 authors, 2546 literary works, and over 36,000 individual citations are included in this 4-volume work. Major novels and plays generally have 25 sources, while minor works generally have 12. Magill's is specifically designed for undergraduates and general researchers; citations include books and periodicals. Emphasis is on citations published in the 1960's and 1970's.

MAGILL'S LITERARY ANNUAL (Ref. Z 1219 .M33)

This work continues and updates

Masterplots and Survey of Contemporary Literature and covers literary works published from 1977 to the present.

Articles are arranged alphabetically by title of the work and include the same information as Masterplots articles.

MAJOR BRITISH POETS OF THE ROMANTIC PERIOD (Ref. PR 1143 .H4)

This work provides extensive study of 6 major British poets: Blake, Wordsworth, Coleridge, Byron, Shelley, and Keats. The articles for each poet include an introductory article, biographical outline, selected bibliography of biographical works, and works of general criticism. A representative sampling of the works of the poet and letters by the poet conclude each article. A general bibliography, title index, and first line index are included in the back of the volume.

MASTERPLOTS (Ref. PN 44 .M33 1976)

This 12-volume set contains 2,010 plot stories and reviews noted world literature. Articles are arranged alphabetically by title of the work. Information for each title includes reference data (type of work, type of plot, time of plot, locale, and first publication date), list of principal characters and their relationships, critique of the work, plot summary, and "Further Critical Evaluation of the Work."

MASTERPLOTS: AMERICAN FICTION SERIES (Ref. PN 843 .M15 1985)

This 3-volume set includes interpretive essays on 343 novels written by American authors. Each entry includes a list of principal characters, an essay entitled "The Story" (plot), and an essay of critical evaluation. Arrangement is alphabetical by title rather than by author.

MASTERPLOTS: BRITISH FICTION SERIES (Ref. PR 825 .M37 1985)

This 3-volume set includes interpretive essays on 383 novels written by British authors. Each entry includes a list of principal characters, an essay entitled "The Story" (plot), and an essay of critical evaluation. Arrangement is alphabetical by title rather than by author.

This 4-volume set includes interpretive essays on 383 novels appearing from 100 to 1985 that are not included in earlier volumes of Masterplots. The format of each essay consists of several parts: The Novel (plot), the Characters, Themes and Meanings, Critical Context, and Sources for further Study. Arrangement is alphabetical by title of the novel.

MASTERPLOTS II: POETRY SERIES (Ref. PN 110.5 .M37 1992)

This six volume set examines 760 works of poetry by 275 poets, ranging from 7th century Chinese verse to 20th century poetry from around the world. The articles are arranged alphabetically by title. The essays are arranged into three sections. "The Poem" presents the events, situations, or objects the poem describes. "Form and Devices" looks closely at imaginary, metaphor, and meter. "Themes and Meanings" examines the underlying concerns being expressed in the work. Volume 6 has a bibliography of critical studies and a title and author index.

MASTERPLOTS II: WOMEN'S LITERATURE SERIES (Ref. PN 471 .M37 1995)

This six volume set has 53 essays on books of fiction and nonfiction authored by women from ancient Greece to the late 20th century. These include poetry collections, plays and short story collections. The essays are arranged into "Form and Content", "Analysis", "Context" and "Sources for Further Study". Volume 6 has an Author Index, a Geographical Index, a Title Index, and a Type of Work Index.

MASTERPLOTS II: SHORT STORY SERIES (Ref. PN 3326 .M27 1986)

This 6-volume work contains critical evaluations of 732 outstanding short stories from world literature. Each article is divided into three sections: a summary of the plot; themes and meanings, and style and technique. A bibliography appears at the end of each article. Arrangement is alphabetical by title of the short story.

MLA INTERNATIONAL

BIBLIOGRAPHY

(Index Table Ref. Z 7006 .M4)

MLA (Modern Language Association International Bibliography) indexes scholarly articles found in over 1500 journals and magazines in English as well as in foreign languages. It also indexes articles found in books and collections. Students should be aware that articles indexed in MLA are very scholarly in nature and not intended for light reading. Although Shelton State will not carry the majority of periodicals indexed in MLA, students may use MLA at Shelton and then try to locate the articles at the UA libraries.

HOLDINGS: 1960-present

MODERN BRITISH

DRAMA (Ref. Z 2014 .D7 C35)

PATTERNS OF POETRY:

AN ENCYCLOPEDIA OF FORMS (Ref. PN 1042 .W514 1986)

This encyclopedia includes forms of poetry used by poets throughout the history of English literature, from blank verse to hymnal measure, from englyn penfyr to the double dactyl/ from the cherihew to the sonnet. Each article is introduced with a brief discussion of the form's origin and followed by a presentation of its scansion, metrics, and rhyme scheme. A sample poem is provided for each form, showing how the form works.

POETRY CRITICISM (PC)

(Ref. PN 1111 .P63 1991,)

This source, which is part of the Gale Research series, has excerpts from criticism of the works of the most significant and widely studied poets of world literature. The articles on each poet include a biographical and critical introduction, list of principal works, followed by the critical excerpts arranged in chronological order. Always look in the latest volume for a cumulative author and cumulative title index.

POETRY EXPLICATION

(Ref. Z 014 .P7 K8 1980)

This work is a checklist of interpretative material that appeared between 1927 and 1977, with a few entries from 1978. Past and present British and American poets are included. Entries are arranged alphabetically by poet's name and then by title of poem. Explication from both books and periodicals is included. THIS IS THE BEST SINGLE PLACE TO LOCATE EXPLANATIONS OF INDIVIDUAL POEMS IN ANY LIBRARY.

This source is updated by Guide to American Poetry Explication.

THE PRINCETON

HANDBOOK OF POETIC FORMS (Ref. PN 1042 .P75 1986)

This work contains 402 entries with primary emphasis on prosodic and poetic terms found in many different areas of literary study. This book includes poetic forms, prosody, rhetoric, genre, and topics such as poetry reading and the relationship of linguistics to poetry.

READER'S ENCYCLOPEDIA OF SHAKESPEARE (Ref. PR 2892 .C3)

This volume offers a compilation of information on all aspects of Shakespeare's life and works. The entries, intended for the general reader as well as the specialist, are based on scholarly articles. Entries for the individual plays include notes on the text, dating, and sources of the play; a plot summary; stage history; and excerpts from critical studies of the work.

THE READER'S ENCYCLOPEDIA OF WORLD DRAMA (Ref. PN 1625 .G3 1969)

Focusing on drama as literature rather than theatre (i.e., performance), this work includes entries on plays and playwrights, including historical background. There are also short entries on various subjects, including terminology of the drama.

A READER'S GUIDE TO FIFTY AMERICAN NOVELS (Ref. PS 371 .077 1979)
